About the Competition:

After the great success of the first edition, the Saudi Center for Commercial Arbitration is organizing the 2nd SCCA Arabic Moot, which will be for the Arab Gulf region. The competition is open to undergraduate students in the Sharia and law schools at universities in Gulf Cooperation Council states. The participants will compete by arguing a hypothetical commercial arbitration case that simulates international commercial cases, thus honing the legal and personal skills that participants need in order to argue before international arbitration tribunals. The Arabic Moot will also enhance the participants' personal, cognitive, and legal abilities, as well as highlight their capabilities and allow them to compete on an international stage.
